

Simple Machines and You

Students can use the world around them to find simple machines. Using the six types of simple machines, have your students document how many they use in a single day, and where they see them in the world.