

Member Reciprocal Admission Programs

Your Museum of Science and Industry membership allows you to take advantage of two separate programs that offer free or preferred-rate admission at more than 300 science centers, primarily in North America.

Local Reciprocity Program: This program grants 50 percent off admission at the following museums in the Chicago area. This program

Peggy Notebaert Nature Museum

The ASTC Travel Passport Program: Receive free or discounted general admission to the Association of Science-Technology centers included on the following list. This program is open to MSI members at Dual, Family and all Annual Fund Membership levels. Science centers requesting proof of residence are marked by (*).

Check for exclusions. Make sure the science center or museum you are visiting is not located within 90 miles of either your home residence or the science center or museum that you belong to. This distance is measured as a linear radius, not driving distance.

Reciprocal admissions programs usage guidelines: Call the science center you plan to visit before you go to confirm that reciprocal admission benefits or discounts are still in effect (reciprocal science centers can cancel their participation at any time). Remember to take your MSI membership card with you in order to verify your identity and the active status of your membership. Unfortunately, MSI is unable to verify your membership by phone.

The ASTC Travel Passport Program entitles visitors to free general admission at participating science centers 90 miles or more away from MSI and your residence. It does not include free admission to special exhibits, planetarium and larger screen theater presentations. Nor does it include store discounts and other benefits associated with museum membership, unless otherwise stated. Visit astc.org/passport for additional details, including street address, website and individual admission policies.
